

About The Gott Bequest

The collection comprises over 600 rare books, covering a range of subjects related to the fields of gardening, botany and horticulture. Particularly strong in early texts from the 17th and 18th-centuries, the Bequest includes classic works by such notable figures as William Curtis, the editor of Curtis's Botanical Magazine and the author of the 6-volume Flora Londinensis. The collection was purchased by the library service over a number of years from a donation left by Beryl Gott, great-granddaughter of the textile pioneer Benjamin Gott.
